WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 .- Full investigation of the Pearl Harbor tragedy by Congress would seem to be assured

Such an inquiry becomes more than ever necessary because of the peculiar attitude which has been exhibited by various officials of the present administration toward the army board whose report is one of gestions that the army board had n right to discuss the part played by Secretary of State Hull and should have confined itself solely to army officials.

Delay Sought

Here was an instance in which the army and navy pleaded with the civilian branch of the government to delay steps that would bring a crisis in relations with Japan till they had time to prepare for war and yet it is seriously argued that the communications between the department of State and the Navy side the army nettled the president the rest of the morning.

THE FAMILY DECIDES

When services are arranged at our mortuary, the family makes all decisions. We encourage discussions among our clients, that they may reach full agreement among themselves as to the type of service deemed most suitable.

Our function, as we see it, is to provide the facilities and professional service they require. While our counsel is always available, it is offered only to assist them, not to change their views. We have found that clients appreciate this policy, as they have approved other features typical of our organization.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I'm 17 years old I've never had a date. I have lived with my aunt and uncle since my parmy aunt and uncle since my parents died four years ago. I have my own income, so I'm not a burden

My aunt doesn't agree with me that it's natural for girls and boys to want to have each other's companionship, so I don't get many privileges. I'm under such strict supervision that I'm afraid to ask my aunt if I may have a certain boy over. This boy has been trying to date me a long time, but I'm always putting him off. I dislike neeting boys away from my home. But if my aunt doesn't change her views. I'm going out on the sly. What do you think I should do? J. M.

If this letter should reach the eye of the aunt who doesn't believe in dates for girls of seventeen, here's hoping she'll consider the 'teenagers' point of view. The implied threat, "I'm going out on the sly." should be enough to warn overly strict duennas that girls do go out on the sly if they can't meet boys respectably in their own homes.

In a couple of visits, any grownup can decide whether or not a boy a desirable acquaintance, and ways and means of freezing him out are not difficult. To let the think I'm entitled to a regular home THIS ATTRACTIVE young woman "suitors" in for inspection is the

And can I tell how to get it. That's a mouthful, little lady. Three mouthfuls, in fact. But since several billion people are agitated by the same desire, I shall do my darnedst to give you and other gonizers a few crude notions on he subject.

First off, comrades, you'd better revise your idea of Personality. It sn't something you can learn from a book or copy from a pattern or develop by a set of exercises. In it isn't something you get but something you are.

these things. Not, at least, for more than three minutes at a time. Never once, in my abundant years have I found myself next morning where I left myself last night. Speaking. phychologically, of course, and without moral implications. Or, at ost, just a few. Here and there Now and then.

Having settled that, we now reurn to the other delightful attrioutes which are supposed to place me in the Wonder Woman class. And we might's well make the survey short 'n' snappy.

The plain truth is I lack every essential and violate every rule pre-scribed for the Personality Seeker. And yet I admit lil Elsie does get along. And quite nicely, everything considered. But how? Ah, There's the Secret. How does the person who frankly admits that she hasn't personality of a sand flea still manage to swing quite a honey of a wallop and keep her nose in quite number of pies?

Is there a reason . . . a good practical reason that would apply to similarly constituted crit-ters? There is. And it's this-

Tying your own shoes was a tough job. But your parents let you try. They knew it would help you to help yourself. Remember the thrill when they stayed tied?

Shifting for yourself has always been an American custoin. As boy or man, just give an American an even break-a chance to get ahead-and he'll do the rest.

But when government goes into business, in competition with its citizens, the American idea of an even break is destroyed ... for government in business takes special privileges that are denied

Consider government power projects, pay federal taxes; often get money from the U.S. Treasury at little or no interest; make up losses out of the pockets of the taxbavers.

On the other hand, America's businessmanaged power companies - owned and operated by millions of folks like youare on their own. They pay their full share of taxes, and they pay fair interest on any loans.

Maybe you run a store or service station or beauty shop. Would you like to have a next-door competitor who has little or no rent, or taxes, or interest to pay, and who is kept in business partly by your tax money?

It is a tribute to American self-reliance that tax-paying, self-supporting companies supply over 80% of the tremendous amount of electric power used in this country. And it is a further tribute that these companies provide America gigantic demands of war-and, when most things oost more-still deliver this electricity at low pre-war prices.

Gobblers Lose Star

BLACKSTONE, Va., Sept. 5 (4P) -Virginia Tech football hopes rejolt today when Head Coach MacCaulley McEver an-nounced that Bob Minnich, quarterback prospect, has decided not to return to school. Minnich, who was a star back on the Stonewall high school team at Charleston, W. Va., last year, recently was examined by his draft board and advised not to compete in sports Minnich, who was classified 4F

by his draft board, was said by McEver to be a "sure bet" to earn a starting berth with the Gobblers.
